

Nightingale - Fado

copyright Martina Rosenberger 2007

Since you stopped to talk to me,
Held back your jokes and laughter
Your silence made a fool of me
Loving you for what you are

Did I lose a brother,
Did I lose a lover?
Never shared my life with you
But losing you still breaks my heart

If once the nightingale sang for you
Your mind will never lose the tune
But you will long for the song
In your heart ever after

How can I miss, what I never longed to have Knowing our paths continents apart?
Still I felt so grateful for your soul
Living friendly on this earth.

I wish you knew you always had been free
-How could I wish to catch a bird?- still my eyes won't stop to fill with tears knowing you forever gone

If once the nightingale sang for you
Your mind will never lose the tune
But you will long for the song
In your heart ever after

What difference does it really make?
My daily life has never changed
Day by day time rushes by
I only miss to hear your song
